Beloved Pastor Passes Beyond

REV. C. W. SIDEBOTHAM ACTIVE HERE FOR PAST TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

This community was saddened Monday morning when word was passed that Rev. C. W. Sidebotham had passed away the previous evening in Lockwood hospital, Petoskey, where he had been taken a few hours before his death.

Charles Wesley Sidebotham was born at Cowsand, England, the son of the Reverend William and Mrs. Isabella Sidebotham. The family came to Northern Michigan where the father held pastorates in a number of towns including Munger, Bay Shore, Kalkaska and Lake City, much of the deceased's boyhood being spent in the two latter places. Three other members of the family engaged in missionary and pastoral work. A brother, Richard, being a missionary in Korea; a sister, Emily, who engaged in mission work in Sitka, Alaska, under the National Home Mission Board; and Robert who was at one time pastor of the East Jordan Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Sidebotham graduated from Alma College in 1901 where he had been a member of Alma's first football team which was organized, captained and coached in 1896 by the late Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox.

Later he matriculated with Princeton Theological Seminary, graduating in 1904. While there he formed an enduring friendship with John VanEss who was later to play a big part in controlling the Arabs in Iraq during World War I.

Mr. Sidebotham's first charge was in Hartington, Nebraska. Following his marriage to Miss Essie Hooper in June, 1907, he was called to the Presbyterian church in Brooklyn, Michigan where he remained seven years, going from there to Milwaukee in 1914.

After another seven-year pastorate there he was called to the First Presbyterian church in East Jordan, giving his first pastoral sermon December 4th, 1921.

Mrs. Sidebotham passed away September 1st, 1926. He was married September 24th, 1935, to Miss Isabel C. Henderson of Cadillac.

He was honored many times in church circles, being Moderator of the Petoskey Presbytery several times and clerk of it for more than ten years. From 1938 to 1940 he was Moderator of the State Synod of Michigan.

In fraternal circles he was affiliated wth the East Jordan Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons and a member of the East Jordan Rotary Club.

Mr. Sidebotham has been an integral part of the religious, educational, cultural and civic life of the community during the twenty-five years he has been a resident. His finely-trained mind, conservative judgement, and unswerving honesty made him an invaluable asset to any group with which he became identified. If any phase of his work in the church seemed to predominate it was that of the young people to whom he was devoted.

For more than twenty years he has been active in arranging the work and programs for various young peoples' conferences, the last one being held in Petoskey the evening he died.

Surviving are the widow; two daughters, Mrs. Philip (Elizabeth) White of Miami, Florida and Mrs. Robert (Gertrude) Winkle of South Haven; one brother, Rev. Robert S. Sidebotham of Union Mills, Indiana; and two sisters, Mrs. Isabel Albright of Bay City and Miss Emily Sidebotham of Pasadena, California.

Funeral services were held at the church Wednesday afternoon, Dr. Roy Hamilton, President of Alma College, officiating. Burial was at Sunset Hill.

WARNING!

Complaints of damage to rural mail boxes have been received at this office. Any one found guilty of said act will be liable to the penalties of three years in a penal institution or a fine of $1,000 or both.

Mrs. William Howard Sends Congratulations

In a letter to the Herald from Mrs. Wm. Howard, former East Jordan resident, she writes, "The home paper keeps me in touch with the few old friends left there, also I am proud of the way you, Paul, kept the Reveille on the Jordan going right to the last, also the way the home town has responded to the many calls made upon it, also the feature "Looking Backward by Mrs. Secord."

MARRIAGES

Graham — Wilson

Mary L. Graham ,daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Graham and Edward E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Wilson, both of East Jordan, were united in marriage, Friday evening, Oct. 18, at the Presbyterian Manse, the Rev. C. W. Sidebotham officiating.

The bride was attired in a teal wool dress with brown accessories, her corsage was of white mums.

Reva Drenth, sister of the groom as bridesmaid, wore an aqua wool dress with a white hat, her corsage was of yellow and white baby mums.

William Drenth assisted his brother-in-law as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the grooms parents for about 50 guests.

The bridal table was centered by a three tiered wedding cake, made by the bride's mother. The young couple received many lovely gifts.

The bride is a graduate of the East Jordan High School in the Class of '43 and has been employed the past three years in Ann Arbor.

The groom was recently discharged from the Marine Corp. after serving 27 months, 20 of which were spent overseas.

Bourguigond — Prevo

Elizabeth Bourguigond of Sault Ste. Marie and Enos Prevo, son of Mrs. Alena Prevo of South Arm Township were married Saturday, Oct. 5, at Sault Ste. Marie, where they will reside.

Paplo — Carson

Isabel Pablo of Charlevoix and Walter Carson of East Jordan were married Thursday evening, Oct. 17, at Boyne City. Following the ceremony, a reception was held, about 30 guests attending.

Charlevoix Defeats Jordan Eleven

STRONG CHARLEVOIX TEAM TAKES LONG END OF A 42 - 0 SCORE

Scoring on the Jordan boys in the first quarter, the Charlevoix team played a fast and terrific game to beat our local boys by the score 42-0.

Both teams played for yardage in the first quarter, with neither team gaining very much until Charlevoix pushed into our territory and began gaining yardage through our line. Securing a first down by a line push Joliffe took the ball over for Charlevoix's first score. No extra point was scored.

Things were looking better in the second quarter until a Charlevoix man intercepted one of East Jordan's passes and went over for the second touchdown. They again failed to score the extra point. After kicking off to East Jordan, Charlevoix received the ball when East Jordan punted back. After a series of fast plays a long pass put the ball over again and the half ended with Charlevoix leading 18 - 0.

In the third quarter the spectators were thrilled to see a Charlevoix man make an end run and go about 70 yards for another touchdown. And a few minutes later Charlevoixs' fast man, F. Martin, had gone over the goal line again. But the third quarter wasn't over yet and Charlevoix scored one more touchdown before the whstle blew ending the third quarter.

Charlevoix succeeded in scoring one more touchdown in the fourth quarter before the East Jordan boys settled down to plzay some real football. It was in the last few minutes of the game that the spectators enjoyed some fine passing done by the Jordan Eleven, as they worked their way into Charlevoix territory. The local boys were in a position to score and were playing hard when the final whistle blew and the ball game was over, giving Charlevoix another victory by the score 42-0.

Although the local boys played hard and fast all during the game, Charlevoix had a decided edge over them in some of their plays and the way they were executed. It was an exciting game to watch and both teams were on their toes every minute battling it out.

This week on Friday the Jordan boys go to Grayling to face a team that will give them a tough battle. We thing the boys can win — if they have your support.

Improper Stovepipe Causes Small Fire

While National Fire Prevention Week was set for October 6 to 12, it was celebrated in East Jordan somewhat belatedly early Wednesday morning when the East Jordan Fire Department was called out in a pea-soup fog, to extinguish a blaze on Bowen's Addition.

A small garage, reconverted to a small house, belonging to Lawrence Hayes, and occupied by Ollie King suffered minor damage. The cause of the fire was a stovepipe from a kitchen stove running directly through the wall — without benefit of masonery of any kind — and extending up outside.

Servicemen's Addresses Wanted

COMMUNITY SERVICE CLUB IS PREPARING ANNUAL CHRISTMAS MAILING LIST

The Community Service Club is preparing its annual Christmas mailing list and is desirous of obtaining the names and address of all those in the service by November 1, and no later.

The Herald's mailing list for servicemen has dwindled to approximately one-third of the servicemen reported to still be in the service from this community. Ths is due to the fact that the average person doesn't know that the Community Service Club is still sending the Herald to your son in the service.

Please write your son's (or daughter's) address clearly on a sheet of paper and bring or mail it to the Herald Office or to Tom St. Charles at the Postoffice. before November 1. Either place is sufficient, as the Herald and Mr. St. Charles will compile duplicate complete lists for both Christmas present and Herald mailing.

Remember — No address — no Christmas present or Herald.

National Air Mail Week

STARTS SUNDAY, OCT. 27, ENDS FOLLOWING SATURDAY

Business firms are planning special programs to stimulate volume during National Air Mail Week October 27 — November 2. Postmaster St. Charles recently stated.

Inauguration of the new five-cent United States flag rate October 1 immediately brought a sharp rise in air mail volume, Postmaster St. Charles said. Rapid air mail service, offered for the first time at a low postage rate, should stimulate commerce, business leaders here believe. For that reason, they are encouraging large air mailings during the nation-wide air mail promotion week.

"We have long advocated lower air mail rates," said Robert Campbell, president of the Chamber of Commerce, "believing that rapid service between customers and manufacturers and distributors would foster commerce.

The Post Office Department has taken a leaf from the book of American business, reducing the air-mail rate from 8 cents to 5 cents an ounce and simultaneously offering better and faster service. The Post Office has borrowed the proven principle that by getting more customers for a good product at a reduced cost the unit cost of delivery is cut. A lower price requires one thing to succeed — larger volume.

Business men want to have the five cent rate continued. A policy of enlightened self-interest suggests that all do us promote air mail during this period when the new low rate is being tested.

Meanwhile, Postmaster St. Charles reported, air mail letters are being received at the post office with incorrect postage affixed. The five-cent rate applies anywhere that the American flag flies, including all United States possessions. It is also applicable to the armed forces abroad, and to Canada and Mexico.

Zaremba — Skrocki

Saturday, Oct. 19, 1946, Sophie Zaremba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zaremba of West Elmira and John Skrocki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Skrocki of East Jordan, were united in marriage, in the St. Thomas Church, West Elmira. The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. Jerome Zblowski.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white satin and lace gown with a long train. Her veil was held in place by a beautiful crown of stone settings. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried an arm bouquet of white lilies and a white orchid.

Christine Szczepaniek of Elmira, maid of honor, wore a dress of blue netting trimmed in blue satin. Her headpiece was a crown of blue sequins trimmed in netting to match her dress, her corsage was of red roses.

Frst couple in the ceremony was Joseph Zaremba, brother of the bride, who acted as best man, and Bernice Skrocki, sister of the groom.

Other couples in the wedding party were Marjery Skrocki, cousin of the groom and Casimer Zaremba, brother of the bride; Bernice Zaremba, sister of the bride and Chester Skrocki cousin of the groom; Manica Marker and Chester Zaremba, brother of the bride.

The bridesmaids were dressed in netting over taffeta gowns identical in style but carried out in various rainbow colors. They all wore headpieces, a crown of sequins to match their gowns. Their flowers were of various colored roses. The groom and his attendants wore morning frocks, the coats being black with grey pin stripe trousers.

Bernadette Frances, niece of the bride was flower girl and Leon Bartlett, nephew of the groom was ring bearer.

The brides mother wore a navy dress with matching accessories, her corsage was of white carnations and red roses. The groom's mother wore a wine color velveteen dress with matching accessories, her corsage was of white carnations and pink roses.

A solemn high mass was sung by Eileen Brennen, Joan Dennis and Maraleigh Clark of East Jordan.

A wedding breakfast was served immediately following the ceremony in the Veterans Hall in Gaylord. In the evening a reception and dinner was served to about 300 guests.

The groom served 37 months in the army, serving both in the European and Pacific areas.

The couple left Tuesday for Detroit where the groom has employment.

For next week, Oct. 27 — Nov. 2, send all letters possible via air mail. Let the Postoffice Department know that East Jordan needs this service.

Services This Friday for Anton Hansen

Anton Hansen was born in Juedestrand, Norway, Jan. 8, 1861 and passed away at the home of his niece Mrs. John Hall, after an illness of one week from old age.

He first came to America in 1883 and made several trips back to Norway, sailing on the ocean boats.

His wife died about forty years ago in Norway.

He is survived by three daughters and two sons, also one brother, Andrew Hansen, all in Norway. Several grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

He was a member of the Lutheran Church.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon, Oct. 25, at 2 p. m., at the Watson Funeral Home, Elder Ole Olson of the LDS church officiating. The bearers appointed are John Hall, Elmer, Tom, Lawrence and Tim Jensen.

Burial will be in Lakeside Cemetery, South Arm Township.

Compiling History of Iron Furnaces

AUTHOR WOULD APPRECIATE ANY DATA FROM THOSE INTERESTED

Jay Rivers of Escanaba, who worked for many years in charcoal iron furnaces at Boyne City, East Jordan and other Michigan towns, is endeavoring to compile a history of the industry, and would appreciate receiving information and pictures of old furnaces in the state.

Rivers, who is now one of the owners of the Escanaba Motor Company in Escanaba, began work when a young man at the Boyne City furnace and after working at various plants became superintendent of the Delta Chemical & Iron Company's furnace at Wells, Mich.

Charcoal iron furnaces in Michigan date back to the mining on the Marquette range nearly a century ago. A forge was built on the Carp river in Marquette county in 1847, three years after the dscovery of iron ore near the site of the first Jackson mine. The first blast furnace in the Upper Peninsula, however, was the Pioneer, built at Negaunee for the Pioneer Iron company, subsidiary of the Iron Cliffs company.

Some of the early day furnaces in Lower Michigan were those at Spring Lake, near Grand Haven; the Ironton furnace, located on Lake Charlevoix and owned by the Cherry family; the Mitchell-Diggins Iron company at Cadillac; the Antrim Iron Company at Mancelona. Charles H. Schaffer of Marquette, who last year died at Pasadena, Calif., at the age of 99, built a furnace at Boyne City in 1905 part of which was moved from the Martel furnace at St. Ignace. A few years later, Schaffer and Noah W. Gray built another furnace at East Jordan, part of which was moved from Valley Forge, and included among the parts were cannon balls cast during the Revolutionary war. In 1918, Schaffer sold out the interests in furnaces at Boyne City, East Jordan and Wells, and retired. The Charcoal Iron Company of America, of which George J. Webster was president, acquired about that time the furnaces at Boyne City, Elk Rapids, Newberry, Manistique, Ashland and Marquette.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Press for Timber Conservation; Red Bloc Hits Italo Peace Pact; Greece Wracked by Inflation

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Lest the reader become too excited, the above is a reproduction of an advertisement that appeared in a Toronto, Canada, newspaper. Indicating an abundance of meat in the dominion, ads of this type are a common sight in Canada.

TIMBER:
Debate Control

Government versus private control of the 345 million acres of privately owned timber-land occupied delegates to the first congress of the American Forestry association since 1905. The need for some sort of effective management of the nation's lumber resources is pointed up by an 11 per cent drop in reserves since 1938.

Calling for government control of private timber-land, comprising 57 per cent of the forest area in the U. S., Secretary of Agriculture Anderson stated that current annual lumber cutting exceeds new growth by 50 per cent. Because of the steady reduction in reserves, the total now stands at a low of 1 trillion, 601 billion board feet.

Samuel T. Dana, dean of the school of forestry of the University of Michigan, pushed the so-called Higgins Lake proposals for private management drawn up earlier this year by 18 forestry and conservation experts at Higgins Lake, Mich. Justifying private operations, the proposals called for an intensive educational campaign to emphasize importance of timber resources to the nation's welfare.

PARIS:
Italian Pact

Following a pitched warning from Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov against the division of the world into eastern and western blocs, the Paris peace conference approved the proposed treaty for Italy.

Molotov

Because it considered the treaty opposed to the interests of its Yugoslav ally, Russia led the bitter fight against adoption of the pact. Championing Yugoslavia's cause, Molotov shouted that Russia would not permit the western powers to dictate to the "new Slavic democracies," and reiterated Lenin's axiom that "a people which takes its destiny into its own hands is invincible."

The Russian bloc's objections to the treaty centered against establishment of a strong, neutral governor for the key port of Trieste, and creation of a new Italo-Yugoslav border.

A strong governor would deprive the mixed Italian-Yugoslav population of its self-rule, Molotov declared in calling for a powerful constituent assembly. An alliance of Italian Yugoslav Communists would have given the Reds control of the strategic city.

The new Italo-Yugoslav border leaves the Slovene population of Gorizia and the Isonzo valley in Italy as a racial minority, Yugoslavia charged.

MEAT:
Predict Plenty

In pressing the administration to decontrol livestock, the beef industry advisory committee declared that there were sufficient cattle in the country to meet the requirements of the next 12 months but they were being kept from market because of price inequities.

Citing department of agriculture statistics, the committee said there were 80 million head of cattle and calves on farms Jan. 1, of which 40 million were available for meat. Despite heavy marketings this summer, 52 million head of cattle were available for meat by Sept. 24-30.

Estimating that supplies will be fully 15 per cent above requirements, the committee concluded that there would be 72.5 pounds of beef and veal per person from Oct. 1, 1946, to Oct. 1, 1947. This compares with 60.6 pounds per capita in the 15 year prewar base period.

GREECE:
Inflation-Ridden

With goods and "hard" money scarce, inflation is riding high in Greece. A full meal without wine now costs more than $4 and secondhand clothing sells at $150 to $200 and shoes at $30.

As in all inflation-ridden countries, the dollar commands a premium in national exchange. While the official rate is 500 drachmas to the dollar, speculators offer as much as 6,500 drachmas for a dollar. By selling dollars, then reconverting their drachmas to U. S. currency again, Americans can make a pretty profit.

Indicative of the Greek government's desire for "hard" money, employees of the American embassy who are paid in gold flown from the U. S. receive 17,000 drachmas per dollar. This is three times the ordinary official rate.

Because there is no food rationing or price control over staple items, Greek white collar workers paid on fixed salaries are especially hit. To procure essentials, they must deal in the black market, make connections with government or business officials, or sell personal belongings.

WAGES:
Production Bonus

In addressing the American Management association in Boston, F. D. Newbury, vice president of Westinghouse Electric corporation, advanced a new formula for keeping postwar wages and prices within bounds.

Newbury's plan calls for maintaining basic wage and salary rates at their present level and payment to employees of additional income in proportion to increased volume of production, ability to pay and efficiency of the individual organization.

Stating that the proposal could not be called a profit-sharing plan, he said that the bonus payments would be considered as part of operating costs, with employees entitled to the maximum a company could afford to pay. Terming the plan highly flexible, Newbury said that an enterprise could easily readjust its wages if business declined.

ARMY:
Charge Misconduct

Claiming that he possessed information involving highly placed army officials connected with the Nazi war crimes trials of misconduct with wives of the prosecuted bigwigs, Sen. Hugh B. Mitchell (Dem., Wash.) revealed his intention of asking the senate war investigating committee to make a full-blown inquiry into the charges.

Mitchell declared that he had been informed that Frau von Schirach, wife of the Hitler youth leader who received 20 years, was one of the wives of the Nazi leaders who was guest of honor at champagne parties allegedly thrown by the accused army officials. Wives of high S.S. officers under investigation for war crimes also were invited to the "dimly lit" drinking jousts.

The senator stated that he had been informed that Heinrich Hoffman, former personal photographer of Adolf Hitler, served as a go-between for the women and U. S. officials. Detained to identify prominent Nazis, Hoffman was said to be in the pay of the American government.

EUROPE:
Needs Fertilizer

Europe will continue to need much more food than it can produce for at least two more years, according to Homer J. Henney, director of the Colorado A. and M. college experiment station, who spent late 1945 and early 1946 in Europe as deputy director of food and agriculture for the U. S. military government. The basic reason, he explained, is lack of commercial fertilizers.

Vets Prefer Business

A survey just completed at Northwestern university of the career preferences of 5,659 veterans enrolled for full-time study this fall showed that business is the top choice of these veterans, with 30 per cent selecting this field as a lifework. The choice in other fields is as follows: engineering and the physical sciences, 22 per cent; law, 11 per cent; medicine, 11 per cent; teaching, 10 per cent; journalism, 5 per cent and dentistry, 5 per cent.

PRESENTATION OF COLD FACTS BEST CAMPAIGNING METHOD

IF IT SHOULD ever be my province to conduct the election publicity for either party, which it will not be, I would take a tip from the political wisdom and psychological understanding of Harrison E. Spangler of Iowa. I have seen them applied.

More than six months before the convention that nominated Gov. Alfred Landon of Kansas as the Republican candidate for President, Spangler, then vice-chairman of the Republican national committee, opened a western headquarters of the party in Chicago. In December, 1933, he began offering factual information regarding the operations of government to the rural press of the nation. In the material offered there were no vituperative condemnations of the opposing parties. There was nothing that could be considered partisan unless a plain statement of facts about government operation could be considered as such. The rural newspaper editors, always chary of propaganda, did not consider the material anything other than what was claimed for it, a presentation of facts. Close to 6,000 rural editors asked for, and printed the material. That service to the newspapers continued each week up to, and for a week after, the convention in late June.

Early in July the Literary Digest mailed its straw vote cards to several million names, as it had done in a number of previous Presidential campaigns. Those cards were checked by the recipients and returned to the Digest before the middle of July, but the tabulation was not completed, and the result announced, until the first week of October.

That straw vote, taken in early July, indicated the election of Landon. The Digest poll had demonstrated its accuracy through many campaigns. It was equally accurate at the time it was taken in 1936. The political conditions at that time were those created by Harrison Spangler's campaign of government facts. He had molded public opinion with the presentation of those facts at a time when politics as such was not being talked.

Then came the more than three hectic months of the active campaign waged under a new party management. Spangler's factual material was thrown into the discard. In its place were the tirades and recriminations that are usual in political campaigns. Oratorical effort shouted charges and countercharges. Each week saw the Republicans losing votes that Spangler's facts had created. We all know the final result.

That pre-convention campaign, as conducted by Spangler, would teach me two lessons. First, to give the public unvarnished facts. The people will digest them into opinions. When the facts do not conform to what the people expect or want of government, they will vote for a change. They resent condemnation of one party by the other. They will do their own condemning when the facts call for such action.

Second, I would conduct my fact campaign as far in advance of an election as possible. I would start it immediately after an election, rather than a few weeks before the next one. I could make more votes when the people were not being assailed by campaign oratory, and were in a more reasoning mood. And I would not undo what I had accomplished by indulging in tirades.

A MIMEOGRAPHED NOTE from the income tax collector tells me his office can no longer advise me as to tax payments, made or owed, because of a limited personnel. Senator Byrd's committee reports an increase of 10,564 employees in the treasury department for June, 1946, as compared with June, 1945. There must be a "slow down" working in the treasury when they can no longer do what they formerly did when the department employed 10,564 less people. They still have enough personnel to assess penalties if I forget to pay when payment is due.

President of the U. S. Has Biggest Job in the World

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Once more events bring up the so far unanswered problem, how can the White House be put on a business basis?

Baukhage

The White House executive offices are the headquarters of the biggest organization in the world. The President of the United States is the head of this tremendous administrative set-up. Few people realize the extent of his functions, most of which aren't even suggested in the constitution, and few laws define them. They have grown like Topsy.

We are reminded of the scope of the presidential duties by Willard Kiplinger in his "Washington Is Like That." He points out that the President as leader of his party runs the party policies through the national committee. Some times the party line isn't working. You recall the stew over meat? A meeting of Democratic party leaders, at the moment when the President was preparing to announce at a news conference that he opposed removing the controls on meat prices, passed a resolution asking Chairman Hannegan to confer with administrative officials concerning the removal of such controls.

The President, as the top executive, heads the executive set-up and he appoints the men who run the executive machinery. He can't talk to each one every day. When there is friction a hot-box often develops. There are plenty of examples in history from Ickes and Wallace, back to Lincoln and Seward, and before.

Chief Executive's Task Never Ends

The President issues "executive orders"—which someone has to write for him but which have the force of law — and the President must see that they are properly interpreted. Again there is trouble if these decrees tread on congressional prerogatives.

He has to get bills which he favors, passed. Frequently he writes the first drafts of such bills with the help of his legal advisors. He is expected, if necessary, to "put the heat on" to get them through congress. This means a lot of work in conference with congressional leaders on the phone and through his personal agents. A tactless agent can easily upset the applecart. Remember how Tommy Corcoran used to get under the skin of congress? Many others, well intentioned and otherwise, who came and went, might be named.

The President has to make up the budget, with the help of the budget director. If the director makes mistakes or asks for too much or too little, it is the White House that takes the rap. This involves billions.

He appoints the Justices of the Supreme court and federal judges. A bad choice may be fatal, and yet one person can't know the personal history of every likely candidate. In this sense the President forms the legal thinking of his era.

He is not only his own and his party's but also the nation's chief publicity man. A slip of the tongue not only can lose an election, but also could start a war. If war comes, he has to run it, for the strategy in the field is based on broad objectives decided at home. It was by no means merely military opinion which decided when and where the invasion of Europe took place.

These are only a few of the things a President has to think about. We have omitted mention of many minor but time-consuming matters such as whether the architectural beauty of the White House shall be altered with a new wing, or where some visiting potentate shall sit at the table. All full of dynamite.

It was the death of Woodrow Wilson which brought the presidential workload to public attention. He died, as much from overwork as from his disappointment over repudiation of the League of Nations. Serious study of the problem of furnishing a means to lighten the presidential burden began shortly thereafter, but it was not until 1939 that a specific plan was drawn up and submitted to congress. Among other suggestions for various departmental reorganizations, the plan created a presidential staff of "executive assistants."

About all the public knows about this corps of assistants is that they are supposed to possess a "passion for anonymity." The other thing about them, which isn't usually admitted, is that they have never functioned properly. That, at least, is the private opinion of one insider who has watched them come and go from the beginning. The reason is simple; people who expect a decision on an important matter won't take it from anyone but the President himself.

Must Keep Close Check on Aides

A pitiful example of the breakdown of the White House machinery was the recent Wallace ruckus. The President never need have been placed in the position he was.

It is not a President's job to read over every document submitted to him. No head of a business as big as the government would dream of trying to do that. But somebody should have read both the Wallace memorandum on foreign policy and the Wallace speech and apprised the President of what they contained and implied. Whether it is the President's fault that he didn't have properly experienced hired help, is another matter. That his hired help didn't function, caused the damage.

An explanation, if not an excuse, has been offered in this case. The job of reading over public statements of administration members to see that they didn't conflict was handled by the OWI during the war. Before that the White House machinery had always taken care of such matters. That machinery had not been again set in motion when OWI ceased to function.

The fault was not that the President didn't prevent the Wallace-Byrnes clash, but that he was not prevented from preventing it.

I can think of only one similar bad mistake made by President Roosevelt which parallels the Wallace mix-up and it was due to a similar but not the same cause. It involved the highly technical question of the public debt. An "assistant," supposed to be an expert, furnished the figures on which the President based an important public statement. The eagle-eyed financial writers caught it. The "expert" was called to account; he furnished new figures, was wrong again and caught again. The President was forced to make a second public correction.

The duties of a President are simply too great for any one man. So Presidents have always had personal advisors, some times they were given an office, some times they had no official title—like Colonel House in the Wilson regime. Today we hear little about presidential "administrative assistants" but we hear a great deal about a group of "advisors" who have failed to function properly in spite of the fact that unlike the executive assistants they lack authority. These advisors are too "close" to the President. And they have been criticized by other members of the administration for standing between department heads, the congressional and party leaders. They are all old, close, personal friends of the President. They are inexperienced in government.

Whether President Truman's little circle of "cronies" has helped or hindered him is beside the question. No one can dispute the fact that they were chosen because of their loyalty rather than because of their experience. The question is whether presidential duties, as they exist today, can be delegated even to a well-trained, highly capable staff.

They can, is the answer, IF such a staff is not blocked by higher authorities who, from motives of love, hate, politics, religion, temperament, taste or previous condition of servitude, use such authority, other than in the public good.

DEMOCRATS GIRD TO HOLD SLIM CONGRESSIONAL EDGE

WASHINGTON. — The crisis in Democratic politics brought the Chicago boss Ed Kelly down to Washington for three days, ostensibly to see someone here about his airport. Actually he came to try to get Messrs. Truman and Hannegan out of the glue barrel into which they had hopped gracefully with Mr. Wallace and from which they extricated themselves ungracefully, leaving Mr. Wallace therein.

Kelly went back to Chicago with the official sub-rosa Democratic story that after all, you know, it is possible Messrs. Truman and Hannegan may have planned this exploit in a glue barrel just to get rid of the commerce secretary. This is quite a tall story, one of the highest, if not the soundest, of the campaign thus far, but it was accepted without a grimace in some quarters, where certain Demos were glad to be relieved of the Wallace burden.

In such ways, the leaders have managed to make themselves somewhat happy about all this.

For this or other reasons, their confidential figures on the election show they expect to lose a few more seats in the house but are convinced they can retain the majority. They cannot afford to lose many as they have only 21 above a majority (plurality 47). The latest house lineup shows 239 Democrats, 192 Republicans and 4 others. The Republicans must gain 24 seats to win a plurality.

DEPEND ON UNIONS

A few Democratic senators likewise have been checked off as beyond rescue, but the average conclusion of the high command is they will be able to rescue their congress from the electorate with only some shavings missing.

Their technique of political exploitation is running just about the same as the old Roosevelt surething election tactics. At bedrock, it is simply an alliance between the unions and the city machines. The question has been whether the unions would go along this time as in Roosevelt days. Demo bosses who have talked with Phil Murray, president of CIO, say it is a certainty they will. His left wing branch of the unions, they assert, will join in as usual on election day, no matter how far they have strayed from the political banner of the administration, or indeed how much they have tried to tear it down during the recent strikes. Now I do not guarantee this. I am merely reporting the confident expectations of the Truman strategists.

Naturally if they get all the unions back into their camp, they can stage what might be described as a prewar Roosevelt election. Personally, however, I am far from convinced that the unions will come around for them in a group as usual, and I have in mind particularly the new antagonism of the railroad brotherhoods and the CIO economists.

Not until returns from the union districts are available, the day after election, can anyone be convinced, in the face of such recent evidence to the contrary as the defeat of good labor friends like Wheeler and La Follette in the primaries. Certainly bits of electoral evidence thus far have suggested the unions are not subject to one-horse leading.

A BID FOR RED VOTES

Some information from the electoral feedboxes, however, suggests Kelly may have had something to do with National Chairman Hannegan's bringing not only Wallace but Senator Pepper back into the list of official speakers with glue still fresh and running from them. Wallace always has been characterized generally here as a mystic, a rather innocent one between elections, but Pepper is strictly paprika. The color shows through.

Now the Demo side of the story (and I am telling the inside of only this one today) is the familiar tale that the Communists do not amount to much but their vote may come in handy. Pepper and Wallace, they say, are being held out to the Communistic element as two cakes of sugar (the mix-up of metaphors in this yarn is not mine but a proper contrast between objectivity and the viewpoint of the politicos involved).

You may recall Pepper was roundly applauded by the Communists when Wallace was booed. He could not be anything but Communist sugar-bait in this situation because he has no organization in Florida which means anything to the Democratic command. Lately it has been rather weak there (few Floridans talk much about his antics). Even if he had an organization, his state is not in doubt in this election and therefore his support at home means nothing to the administration.

Indeed, Florida will elect a new

New Books

I Love Miss Tillie Bean — Chase: Story of an American girl who lived in Italy while growing up, and of her later experiences in a Paris dressmaking house.

The Street — Petry: Negro life in New York's Harlem.

This is goodbye — Bauer: Three women of very different types of homes meet while working in an aircraft factory and decide to take an apartment together. This is their story.

The bulwark — Dreiser: A different type of story than Mr. Dreiser usually writes and some critics do not like it as well as his other books. Most agree that any book by Dreiser is interesting.

Alexander Hamilton: A new biography having material never obtainable before.

And another thing — Spring: Author of My Son! My Son! Story of author's search for the real meaning of Christ's life and teachings. He reaches a conclusion after considering the place of religion in individual life and in relation to the world.

Winter Meeting — Vance: Novel of human relationships and personal behavior.

Applejack for breakfast — Campbell: Story of a New Jersey couple who bought a farm and made it pay. Told with humor and understanding.

Anatomy of peace — Reves: A book that helps to understand the many facts concerning coditions necessary to world peace, and the only solution which the author considers workable.

Juvenile Books: Jungle Animals by Frank Buck; All About Pets; Cowdog that helps to herd cows; Biography of Daniel Boone and Abe Lincoln; Nathan, a boy of Capernaum who lived in the time of Christ; Colden Song Book (this belongs to the set of "Golden" books which are very popular with the younger children).

BOWLING

Detroit's E. D. Cotter Electric Co. Bowling Team, unexpected visitors, bowled the East Jordan Recreation Team Sunday evening. The strong Cotter Electric team had scheduled matched wtih Bellaire and Charlevoix and were asked to stop here for a match before returning to Detroit. After drubbing the boys from Bellaire and Charlevoix, they more than met their match here. They took the first game by 110 pins, beating the local team 971 to 861. But the tables were changed in the last two games and the Cotter team, who bowl in Detroit's leading leagues "Michigan Major Classics and Greater Detroit All Stars" were on the wrong end of 973 to 875 and 965 to 868. Score top men for the visitors were Bill LaRue and Phill Northman with 574 each. Phill having games of 201-165-208, while Bill had 211-193-170. The Recreation team, led by Jm Lilac's 581 on games of 190-188-203 followed closely by Spin Cihak's 578 and Greg Boswell's 577, Barney Adair's 555 and Mocherman's 508. Spin had high single game of 225.

WHAT MADE LUTHER GREAT?

Hundreds of biographies of the great Reformer have been written—in English, Latin, German, French, Danish, Swedish, Italian, Spanish, Russian, Polish, Lithuanian, and other languages.—Why?

Says Monsignor Jos. McMahon: "In studying the life and work of Martin Luther, we must recognize frankly that he was one of the greatest personalities in the history of the human race." Or to quote Preserved Smith, noted historian: "Among the great prophets, the last of world importance, Martin Luther, has taken his place."

Or to repeat the words of the great English divine, Alexander Maclaren: "There were three men in the past who reach out their hands to one another across the centuries, St. Paul, St. Augustine, and Martin Luther."

But what was it that made Martin Luther "an Atlas who lifted the world upon his shoulders and carried it over into another age," as one historian describes him?

It was nothing but Luther's rediscovery of the Christian Gospel! Or, as another writer puts it: "Luther's first claim on our gratitude consists in this, that he took the truth from the shelves where it had reposed, dust-covered, through centuries, that he lifted the truth from the casket in which it had lain, smothered with sacerdotal garments, and called with a loud voice, 'I say unto thee, arise!' "

Luther taught nothing new! He taught no doctrine which Christ had not taught. But he did insist that men must teach and believe everything that Christ had revealed to them.

He insisted that all religion must be based on the Bible alone. 2 Tim. 3:16. He insisted that man is saved by grace alone, that salvation is 100% a free gift of God's mercy. Rom. 11:6. He insisted that man becomes a partaker of this free salvation alone by faith in the Atonement of the Savior. Gal. 2:16. And he insisted that the individual Christian has direct access to the father-heart of God through Jesus Christ without any human intermediary. 1 Tim. 2:5; 1 Pet. 2:9.

That was the secret of Luther's greatness. He had rediscovered the Gospel of Christ, which St. Paul had said was "the power of God." With that power on his side, the success of his tremendous undertaking was assured.

(The above article is contributed as a public service by Christ Lutheran Church of Wilson Township, the Rev. Norman Kuck, Pastor.

The Lutheran Church, and also all reformed bodies in Christendom, observes the Reformation of the church each year on October 31st, the anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther's first public religious protest in 1517.

In the service this Sunday the Pastor will re-emphasize the blessing and the corresponding responsibility of SCRIPTURE ALONE and GRACE ALONE, the two-fold heritage of the Protestant Reformation).

THE SCHOOL BELL

More than sixty students and teachers were present at the first school dance held this year on last Friday night. Everyone danced to the music of all the latest records and a good time was had by all. Another one is being planned for this Friday night and for each week following if it is possible.

And don't forget that extra special treat coming your way very soon under the title "He Couldn't Marry Five", to be presented by the Senior Class at an early date, and directed by Mr. Ogden.

A humorous pep meeting preceeded the game last Friday when John Laisure, ably assisted by several High School boys presented a football skit. The band played, the students yelled and school spirit was neither absent or lacking. Here's hoping we can have many more just like this one.

This last Tuesday found all the Seniors gathered at the Hgh School from whch they journeyed out to the point for ther first class meeting. A very good tme was had.

Six weeks of school have passed and this week brings the dreaded report card which we must take home and show to our parents.

The Senior Class is selling personalized stationary this year and anyone wanting to order some may do so by getting in touch with a member of the Senior Class.

Farmers Expect Hunters to Show Courtesy, Safety

Most farmers are hospitable folks and readily grant permission for hunting on their farms. There are exceptions of course, particularly farmers who have had some rather unsatisfactory experiences with hunters in the past.

The sportsman's rules of courtesy and safety will do much to net him a return invitation to enjoy a farmer's hospitality for hunting.

According to A. O. Haugen, farm game extension specialist with the Michigan State college extension service and Michigan department of conservation, some good rules of hunter's etiquette are:

1. Always ask a farmer's permission before you hunt on his land.
2. Leave your car in the farmer's yard.
3. Always climb fences at a post.
4. Close gates when you use them.
5. Do not shoot near the buildings or livestock.
6. Be extremely careful with matches or burning tobacco so as not to cause a fire.
7. Pay the farmer as much respect as you would expect him to respect you and your property.

On Playing the Fiddle Badly

A favorite recreation in our town is getting together in one or another's home and making music. There's somebody at the piano; a guitar; a fiddle player; and Molly Birtles even has a harp!

What comes out isn't the best music in the whole world. In fact, a lot of it is downright bad. But nobody even thinks to question or to criticize.

Because the spirit of harmony is there—harmony between folks who like each other's company, who enjoy the simple, homey atmosphere—with nothing more exciting than old songs, and a glass of moderate beer or cider.

From where I sit, it's a heap more important to be a poor fiddle player, than not to play at all. More important to be a part of the American scene—with its community music, home entertainment, friendly glass of beer—than to hold out for professional perfection. (Besides, I like to play the fiddle—even badly!)

If Isabella had ice cubes ...

Christopher Columbus would never have discovered America!

Isabella, Queen of Spain, had caskets full of jewels. She had velvet robes and silken gowns and handsome hand-made shoes. But she had no electric refrigerator! So the jewels were pawned. Three little ships set out against the sea. And Columbus happened on America back in 1492.

Fantastic? Not really. In Isabella's day, they tried to keep food from spoiling by spices brought overland at great expense from India. Columbus believed he could reach the Indies by sailing westward on the unknown Atlantic. The rest is in history books.

Poor Isabella, with all her clumsy luxuries, never dreamed of ice cubes—nor any of the miracles of modern electric living!

Though electricity plays such a great part in today's comforts and conveniences—you're scarcely conscious of electric service. That's because it's always on hand—all you want—at little cost.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

(Delayed from last week)

One out of every four voting citizens in the United States will be veterans of World War II.Care for veterans of all previous wars cost $35 billion up to 1945. Cost ofthe new GI Bill of Rights may finally cost more than $30 billion, according to the U. S. News. A federal bonus, similar to that granted after World War I, would add $10 to $15 billion. Prediction: Vote—hungry, candidates will soon advocate a federal bonus for our 20 million veterans.

Washington commentators hint that behind the firing of Henery Wallace by President Truman was the unified front put up by United States Senators Vandenburg of Michigan and Connally of Texas. Wallace is stumping Michigan industrial centers this month,while Vandenburg is in Paris.

Michigan's penal system, object of a legislative investigation this year, is given a top rating by the American Prison Association's corrections congressinal session at Detroit. Dr. Garrett Heyns in Michigan director. The legislative report will go to the 1947 state legislature in January.

The Civilian Production Administration refused to authorize repairs at the Coliseum at the state fairgrounds, Detroit. The 1947 state fair cannot be held unless the building is remodeled — To safeguard its veterans' housing village, largest on any college campus in the nation, Michigan State College has inaugurated its own fire department with six firemen and two fire engines on 24 — hour duty.

Because of the increased cost of state conservation services, the next legislature will be asked to approve an increase in hunting and fishing fees. Anglers and small — game hunters would pay $2 instead of $1; deer hunters $3.50 instead of $2.25; and trappers $2 instead og $1.50.

To meet transportation competition of the Pere Marquette streamlined trains operating between Grand Rapids, Lansing, and Detroit, the Great Lakes Greyhound Lines are inaugurating three round — trip express buses daily. Another illustration of free enterprise.

Michigan's one — man grand jury system received flattering praise from Sanford Bates, noted correctionist, The Lansing grand jury's funds were down to $8,000 last week, and the "littlelegislature" has been requested to appropriate $50,000 more. Approximately $450,000 have been expended so far.

Union bricklayers working on Michigan State College's $5,000,000 construction program gets $2 an hour or $80 for 40 hours' work. Average pay, including overtime , runs $136. The average weekly wage of college instructors is $67. Roll your own!

Government owership and operation of the copper industry — along with industries producing lead, zinc, aluminum, magnesium, gold, and silver — are proposed by the C. I. O. Mine, Mill and Smelterworkers'Union. This union bargains for "premium price plan" which provides for government subsidies. The same C. I. O. union recently defeated a proposal to bar communists from holding offices. Midland's Dow Chemical company has a $50 million expansion program, but cannot proceed due to a housing shortage and lack of needed equipment.

The Michigan Unemployment Compensaton commission, with its 2,300 employes, will take over about mid-November the federal employment service with around 1,250 employees. While salaries are paid from federal funds, the next government offices in the state, and 65 part — time offices.

The eighth report to the President and to Congress by the director of war mobilization and reconversion at Washington sounds unusual danger signs. If we are to avert a serious depression in the near future, business must act to hold down prices "wherever possible", labor leaders must resist demands for spiraling wage increases, farmers must maintain their high level of production, and consumers must spend their money wisely.

If the soles tax diversion amendment is adopted on Nov. 5, chances are unlikely that the legislature will continue state aid for Wayne University. Detroit's tax plight prompted solons to turn over $2,700,000 to Wayne for new buildings. This institution has more than 15,000 students, compared with a pre-war level of 10,000.

The Michigan Education Association estimates the annual financial needs of public schools at $104 millions — some $40 millions more than they are getting today. Ballot Proposal No. 2 would guarantee schools an amount equal to 42.64 percent of the sales tax of the previous year plus one-sixth of the current year's sales tax.

Consumer inability to buy meat is creating a boom demand for cheese with a result of higher prices. Milk prices may climb until January. A movement is under way to require pasteurization of milk for both beverage use and cheese. Undulant fever germs are killed by pasteurization. The state legislature invested power in the state department of agriculture for dairy milk inspections.

Warning by Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction: "People must know that taking that much money (sales tax diversion) from the state will mean either new taxes or reduced services." How some municipalities in other states get new revenue: Philadelphia $22 million, Toledo $3 million, from an income tax. St. Louis and Kansas City, cigarette tax. Sixty-three cities in Washington, amusement admission tax. Atlanta, Georgia, $562,000 from a garbage-refuse collection tax. Los Angeles, $1 on $1,000 gross receipts.

Great new motor oil by Standard

Permalube

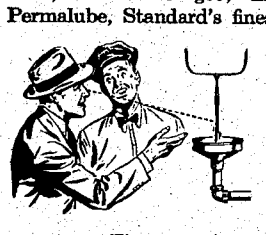

Removes the "goo" Improves the go!

You get premium-plus lubrication

Here's why there's more go to your car when the "goo" is gone. There are no gooey deposits of soot, varnish, carbon, and sludge. There's nothing to interfere with valve and ring action and smooth, powerful piston strokes. You get a sweeter-running engine . . . a better-lubricated, longer-lasting engine.

Standard's great new motor oil, Permalube, gives you this premium-plus lubrication. It not only thoroughly lubricates. It cleans your engine and keeps it clean.

So, remove the "goo," improve the go! Change to Permalube, Standard's finest motor oil, 35c a quart.

"I never saw oil drain out so dirty!" "Good! That shows Permalube's been taking out the 'goo'!"

When you wash your hands, the basin water gets dirty. But your hands get clean! Same way when you use Permalube Motor Oil. The oil gets dirty. But the engine gets clean. The dirt is carried out of the engine when you drain out the oil.

A MESSAGE OF INTEREST to all who await deliveries
of new Chevrolets

We want you to know that everything possible is being done to speed deliveries to you; but production still lags far behind schedule —even though Chevrolet has built more cars and trucks than any other manufacturer from January through September 1946

WE REALIZE how eagerly you are awaiting delivery of the new Chevrolet you have ordered from us, and we want to pass on to you the latest information received from the Chevrolet Motor Division, even though that information isn't too encouraging at this time.

It is true that Chevrolet leads all other manufacturers in total production of passenger cars and trucks from January through September 1946, despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of this year. It is also true that Chevrolet has continued to maintain its lead in total production during the third quarter of 1946. And yet production is still running far below desired levels, with the result that Chevrolet's output of cars and trucks through September 1946 was only 38.7% of the number produced during the corresponding period of 1941.

This means it may take many months for the Chevrolet Motor Division to reach peak production of new Chevrolets—even longer to fill the unprecedented demand for this product of BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST —and, for the present at least, "there just aren't enough Chevrolets to go around," much as we wish there were.

However, we want you to know that new Chevrolets are leaving the plants in the largest numbers possible today. The Chevrolet Motor Division tells us it is doing everything it can, in the face of continued suppliers' strikes, material shortages and manpower problems, to step up shipments to us and to all dealers, in accordance with a predetermined distribution plan assuring each dealer of his fair allotment, based on 1941 passenger car sales. And we, in turn, are doing our best to deliver new Chevrolets to our customers as rapidly as they are received and in the fairest possible way. We are too appreciative of your loyalty and goodwill—too grateful for your patience and understanding—to do anything less than continue to serve you to the very best of our ability.

KEEP YOUR PRESENT CAR RUNNING

Meanwhile, the most important car of all to you is the car you are driving now. May we suggest that you keep it in top running condition until you secure delivery of your new Chevrolet, by bringing it to us for skilled service now and at regular intervals. Remember—cold weather is hardest on old cars. Please see us for a complete check-up today. . . . And, again, thank you!

Murder in Plain Sight

by GERALD BROWN

W.N.U. FEATURES

Duke McCale, private detective, is guarding the wedding presents at the Bigelow mansion. He senses that old Miss Adelaide Bigelow is afraid of something more serious than theft. He meets the bride and groom-to-be, Veronica and Curt Vallaincourt, and Veronica's mother, Sybil, and her brother and sister, Stephen and Victoria. There is a sinister undercurrent that McCale is quick to catch. He discusses the situation with Ann Marriot, his secretary and fiancee, while they are dining at a fashionable night club. They are impressed by the beauty and charm of the club's featured singer, Shari Lynn. Shari goes to a table and joins a big, handsome man—Curt Vallaincourt!

CHAPTER V

The flash of a million golden sparks went by their table. McCale looked out of the corner of his eyes and saw that a tall woman with hair the color of spun sugar was passing. He recognized her immediately. It was Karen Bigelow. She saw him, but gave no glance of recognition. Her eyes were fixed straight ahead in a cold, hard glaze at the table where Vallaincourt sat with the torch singer. She deliberately walked toward them.

"That your Karen?" Ann whispered.

"Uh-huh."

"Well, I do hope there'll be no trouble."

If there was, it was remarkably well-bred and closely held. Karen reached the table and spoke quickly to Vallaincourt. He looked amazed, shaken. He turned to Shari Lynn ofice, blindly. But the Lynn girl only sat there, utterly relaxed, her mouth a sulky sneer. Karen took something from her bag and handed it to Shari. She looked once at Curt, a long, searching, smoldering look, and turned away. Vallaincourt made a move to follow her, but Shari caught his hand, drawing him back. He almost stumbled in the alcove.

It was then that McCale, swiveling around to the startled Ann, had his second shock of the evening. Not five tables away, almost hidden in a corner, sat Stephen Bigelow. There was a row of empty glasses in front of him as though he had ordered them all at one time. Yet he did not seem to be drunk. His eyes were sunken in that face so prematurely cadaverous but they glittered with a cold, sardonic amusement that was frightening.

Ann Marriot gripped McCale's hand in an imploring gesture. "Let's get out of here."

"Maybe the fun is only just beginning," he said, rising with alacrity.

On the steps, a slight altercation was taking place. Karen Bigelow, swathed in ochre wool, was trying to restrain a slightly bedraggled, fussily dressed woman. McCale saw that it was Sylvia Bigelow, bulging out of a sheath of satin.

Karen was saying, "You mustn't go in, Mother Bigelow, you just can't. Let me take you home."

"Get out of my way!" the older woman said.

"I can't let you go in. Besides, he's not there, Sybil. He really isn't there."

"How do you know?"

"I looked."

"You came here to see him?"

"Yes, yes—but he isn't here. Come home with me, Sybil."

The grotesque Sybil hesitated a moment, her bright feverish eyes searching Karen's face. Then she pushed her forcefully aside with crushing arrogance.

The Trail Becomes A Little Plainer

"Let me by," she said, her voice rising hysterically.

There was a limousine at the curb. Karen walked to it, moving like a sleepwalker. She got into it without a backward glance. It rolled away into the dark.

"Well, well." McCale spoke as they settled back into their taxi. "I am more than ever convinced that there is a nigger in the Bigelow woodpile."

"I should say so." Ann smiled wearily. "As our good pal, Rocky, would say—everyone seems one leap ahead of a fit."

It was still quite early. Another night, they might have gone on to one or another of the nightclubs, but McCale was in no mood for it. He knew Ann's evening was probably spoiled, though she said nothing. He reached for her hand, expecting more of her incurable flippancy, but she, too, seemed sunk in a thoughtful depression. When they drew up before the apartment house where she lived, she kissed him lightly before they got out, made no remark when he told the driver to wait. As he fitted her key into the outside door, she spoke.

"Drink?"

"No."

"What are you up to? Where are you going?"

"Places ladies don't grace with their presence."

"I'm willing to forget I'm a lady for tonight."

She had a secret yen for the seamier side, the substrata, the obscure.

"We won't go into that now," he said. He turned her head toward him. "Here."

He kissed her hard on the lips, noticing her complete calm indifference. She was angry.

"Thanks ever so."

"Oh, Lord," he groaned, "don't go giving me your impersonation of Bette Davis now. I'm going to the Print Club to see Jerry Tate."

"Oh, all right. Go ahead. I know what you're like when you smell blood, you hound." She searched his face quickly. "Does it look that bad, Duke? I seem to have been feeling it myself all evening, though I've tried to tell myself it was my proximity to you and one of your fabulous hunches."

He nodded slowly. "Yeah. Something tells me there is something very dirty afoot. It's only breaking out in little places here and there, but there's bound to be an explosion of some kind in the offing. I'm short on information, baby, and a little late on the scene. What I do, I've got to do quickly."

"Well, go ahead, but be sure when you pass the Old Howard to stay on the other side of the street." She laughed, dismissing him with a return to her old facetiousness.

"You are a jealous wench," he chided her, closing the door on her retreating figure.

"Hello, Jerry," said McCale. "Having your good-night quart?"

He chuckled to himself as he got back into the cab, giving the address of the Print Club. The Old Howard, local landmark of burlesque, was a standing joke between them. During a former investigation, he had got himself mixed up, almost fatally, with a girl whose profession was appearing in various night-club extravaganzas. In the glow of infatuation he had nearly married her. They'd gone to New York, where he had intended to set up an agency for himself after the completion of his first case in Boston, but an offer of seven hundred dollars a week from the producer of a higher type of entertainment had estranged them. He just couldn't see himself as the husband of a woman who was being cute in front of an audience.

He was not falsely modest and, indeed, took a rather harsh, cynical attitude toward vice. However, that affair was permanently wrecked. His inamorata had gone into her show, got her seven hundred per week, and McCale had given himself one big horse-laugh. He had retraced his steps to the Hub, starting his business there, relying altogether on the success of his one case to get him going.

A Newspaper Man Gives the Lowdown

He lit a cigarette and sat with his feet up on one of the adjustable seats of the taxi as it bumped along Cambridge street. He thought he had done rather well in the time he had spent in Boston, in spite of obstacles such as his decision not to take divorce cases, not to hold out on the police, not to get in the way of rival agencies. He had managed to keep his head above water and had acquired a reputation of honesty and discretion besides. His lip curled in self-derision as he laughed in the face of his own expansive ego.

"No sense being so damned complacent, boy." He was talking to himself like a Dutch uncle. "So far, you haven't got much forrader on the problem at hand."

He sighed unhappily as the cab drew up with a screech of brakes before a tall, gray office building. Between this and another older structure was a narrow alley, at the back of which could be seen a faintly lighted doorway. McCale made for this. From behind the stark walls on each side of him, he could hear the rumble and roar of machinery, for the presses of the biggest newspaper in town had their home there.

The Print Club, where pressmen and reporters gathered to drink and converse throughout the night, was on the third floor of the narrow edifice at the end of the alley. Duke opened the door and went up the winding iron stairs to the bare, undecorated rooms which were furnished with square wooden tables and chairs of the kitchen variety.

McCale went over to the bar and asked for Jerry Tate. The barman nodded in the direction of the third room, raising a quizzical eye at McCale's formal attire. McCale threw him a hard, deliberate scowl, and made for the door. Just inside it, a young, irascible, nervous-looking man sat alone at a table, playing solitaire. He did not look up as McCale sat down facing him.

"Hello, Jerry," said McCale. "Having your good-night quart?"

"Hi, sleuth," he said in a rasping voice. "Where have you been—all dressed up? Is there a convention you had to attend?"

"Out to dinner."

"Well, well. Times have changed."

"Isn't it the truth! But you see, I haven't forgotten the old days. I come straight from the lap of luxury to visit my old pals."

"I'm all agog." The dark fellow poured himself a finger of whisky and swallowed it in one gulp. "No kidding, Duke, I'm glad to see you. However, you've probably got an axe to grind. So give while I'm still sober."

"As usual I'm after information."

"So—"

"About a great big, husky, handsome young man named Vallaincourt."

Jerry Tate gave a low whistle and fixed McCale with a baleful glance.

"So they've called in the Ogpu?"

"Who?"

"The Bigelows. Who else? How much you soaking them?"

"Now, see here, Jerry, I haven't said—"

"You don't have to. I don't have to be a detective—not even a lousy reporter—to put two and two together. What I can't get over is why they've let it slide along to this late day. You're a bit on the tardy side, aren't you?"

"I'll say. The wedding is next week, so I'm running around in circles—but fast. What can you tell me about him?"

"Very little, I'm afraid. He hits the high spots, does a lot of gambling, plays around fast and loose. Spends lots of dough."

"Where does he get it?"

"Search me."

"Oh, come now."

"Well, rumor has it that it comes from the Bigelows mostly."

"I doubt that."

Tate shrugged. "Some other old gal, then."

"What about his antecedents?"

"Don't know. Springs from Chicago, I'm told."

"How did he get aboard the Mayflower—that is, how did he burrow his way into the bosom of the Bigelow family?"

"Well, now, let's see. First time I remember him around the Gay White Way, he had Victoria Bigelow in tow. Vicky seemed to have the upper hand there for a while. Then there were whispers—very soft—but whispers, my friend, that Mrs. Stephen Bigelow was interested—in a purely platonic way, we hope."

"The beauteous Karen."

Stephen Bigelow Is Discussed

"If you like that type—pardon me."

"Oh, well, if I had to be cast away on a desert island or if some rainy afternoon—or—"

"That's it—just or—To proceed. That little romance was short-lived. Don't ask me why."

"Maybe Stevie got wind of it."

"Stephen Bigelow? That washed-up Romeo. One look from Karen or Mother Sybil would squelch him. I've seen them all together. It was like a peek at the motive behind Lysistrata—"

"Oh, my Lord. If you're going to quote—"

"I'll spare you. Speaking of Mama though, she had her day in the sun, too. She was here and there giggling and gooing over him for quite some time. Nice set-up, eh?"

Young Tate surveyed the table top with wise old eyes. He shook his head. "He finally did get around to Veronica. Right through the family to the pot of gold."

"Kind of roundabout, you think?"

"Now, I don't know. It may be he thought he was being clever."

McCale rose to go. "You don't know of any tie-up between him and Shari Lynn, the singer that's doubling at the Abbey and Latin Quarter shows?"

"Nothing I can vouch for. They seem to be on pretty good terms. By the way, I do know that pressure was brought to bear somewhere along the line over a bit of gossip Watts printed in his column. Orders went through to squelch anything more of the sort that might come under the snooping eye."

"Which only shows that the great can buy protection."

"Oh, well. Come the revolution."

"Just. Well, thanks, old boy."

"For what?"

PAUL TRAINS FOR HIS LIFE WORK

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:19b-22; 11:25, 26; Galatians 1:17-24

MEMORY SELECTION—And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God.—Acts 9:20.

The regenerating grace of God had made Paul into a new man, one who now had no greater delight than telling others of the redeeming grace of God.

In preparation for that fuller ministry which was to follow, Paul first gave witness in the place where he had been persecuting the Christians, in fact, in the city to which he was bound when the Lord met him. But now instead of breathing out threats and violence he met these former associates and friends with the new message of the gospel.

He had to meet them sooner or later, and it was well that he met them now. A clean break with his past makes a man ready for future service.

I. Paul Faces His Past (Acts 9:19b-22).

What a surprise it must have been for those persecutors of the Christians at Damascus to find that the one to whom they had looked for leadership was now a Christian. What a testimony that was—right to the point!

"Straightway"—what a good word to apply to the servant of the Lord. Paul did not hesitate to declare his faith in Christ, to proclaim that the One who had redeemed him was able to save others.

It is the normal and proper expression of Christian faith to give testimony to others. That should be true of every believer. With Paul there was the added element of his call to preach, for God had ordained that he should be his chosen vessel for that purpose (Acts 9:15).

Paul's message was Christ. He proved to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ (v. 22), the One of whom their Old Testament Scriptures spake and for whom they professed to be looking. He declared him to be the Son of God (v. 20).

They were unwilling to accept the message. They were "amazed" at Paul and "confounded" by the truth he proclaimed, but they rejected both it and him, and he had to escape for his life.

Although our lesson only indirectly refers to it (see Gal. 1:17, 18), it should also be noted that Paul went up to Jerusalem before he went to Antioch, as indicated in our next portion of Scripture.

There he faced suspicion on the part of the believers, who knew him as their enemy.

Having faced his past we now see that

II. Paul Faces His Future (Acts 11:25, 26).

He was God's chosen instrument to bear his name to the Gentiles (see Acts 9:15), and at the invitation of Barnabas he came up from his home city of Tarsus to minister at Antioch, the place which now became his real spiritual home, and the center from which his great missionary enterprise was carried out.

It is interesting to note how this came about in the providence of God. Persecution spread the believers abroad (Acts 11:19), and like the scattered brands of a beaten fire they carried the flame of Christianity far and wide. Thus the gospel came to Antioch, the third greatest city in the world of that day. A revival broke out and Barnabas was sent from Jerusalem to be of help.

Good and spiritual man that he was (Acts 19:23, 24), Barnabas did nothing to hinder this work of God, but admonished the people to "cleave unto the Lord"; that is, to follow him closely. Would that all spiritual advisers had such a spirit and such sound judgment.

He was also wise in sensing his need of help. So he went after Paul, the very man to teach these young Christians and to lead them out into a radiant and abundant life for the Lord. Here it was that the beautiful name of "Christian" was first used.

All this was possible because

III. Paul Faces His Lord (Gal. 1:17-24).

Many years after he had been called to Antioch, Paul wrote this letter to the Galatians to warn them against Judaizing teachers and to urge them to hold fast to salvation by faith. He declared this to be a message which he received from God and not from men.

Before Paul went out to preach and teach he went up into Arabia to be alone with the Lord, as he took what we might call his postgraduate course in theology. He learned—alone with God.

His life had been transformed. His attitudes had been completely changed. His thinking about Christ was diametrically opposite to his former beliefs. He needed time alone with God to prepare himself for the stormy but triumphant years ahead.

Serve Sandwiches the Family Likes
(See Recipes Below)

Sandwich Magic

Sandwiches, those mighty American favorites, are a wonderful food for lunches, snacks or entertaining. To think that two slices of bread with a delectable filling can contain so many foodstuffs good for health is indeed a great achievement.

Almost any type of filling may be used, depending upon the use of the sandwich. There is no limit on the type of bread to be used, either, and buns are often used to great advantage in ham or cheese sandwiches, or soft-filling sandwiches.

Probably the most popular use for the sandwich is as a snack or a lunch box item, but there are daintier types to use with salad for entertaining.

Here are several interesting types of fillings that go well with school lunches. All the recipes make enough for several sandwiches, and fillings may be kept in a jar or covered dish in the refrigerator so they will last.

Potato Salad Filling.
1¼ cups diced cooked potatoes
2 hard cooked eggs, minced
1 sweet cucumber pickle, minced
½ teaspoon chopped onion
Salt and pepper to taste
Mayonnaise

Combine potatoes, eggs, pickle and seasonings. Moisten with mayonnaise to a spreading consistency. Use for white or whole wheat bread.

Deviled Peanut Butter.
½ cup deviled ham
½ cup peanut butter
2 tablespoons chopped pickle
Mayonnaise

Combine peanut butter, ham and pickle. Season to taste and moisten to spreading consistency with mayonnaise. This is good with a graham or dark bread.

Egg and Celery Filling.
4 hard cooked eggs
2 dill pickles, chopped
1 tablespoon vinegar
Salt and pepper
¼ cup diced celery
1 tablespoon minced onion
3 tablespoons mayonnaise

Separate yolks and whites. Chop whites and combine with celery, pickles and onion. Mash yolks and add vinegar. Combine with first mixture and add mayonnaise. Season to taste.

Liver Filling.
½ pound liver sausage
4 tablespoons chili sauce
¼ cup celery, chopped
2 tablespoons melted butter or substitute

LYNN SAYS:

Use these short-cuts: If a recipe calls for soured milk and you do not have any at home, use 2 teaspoons of vinegar to ½ cup of evaporated milk and let stand until it sours.

When broiling steaks and chops, place 2 slices of bread in the pan under the broiling rack to prevent fat from splattering in broiler.

In cleaning fish, prevent the odor from clinging to the hands by rinsing them in chilled water before touching fish. Wash afterwards in a solution of as hot as possible salt water.

To sugar dates, doughnuts, etc., place sugar in a paper bag, add dates and shake.

When preparing green or wax beans, it is quicker and easier to cut them crosswise with scissors, than trying to cut them with a paring knife.

To warm leftover rolls, sprinkle with hot water, place in a paper bag and set in oven for a few minutes.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENUS

Scalloped Ham and Noodles
Green Peas
Cabbage-Carrot Slaw
Graham-Nut Bread Beverage
Pineapple-Chiffon Pie

Mash liver and add remaining ingredients. Season to taste. Use on white or rye bread.

Salmon Filling.
2 cups shredded red salmon
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup mashed potatoes
½ cup chopped cucumber pickles
Salt and pepper
Mayonnaise or salad dressing

Combine all ingredients, season to taste and add enough mayonnaise to make of a spreading consistency. Use with white or whole wheat bread.

Tuna Fish Filling.
1 cup shredded tuna fish
1 cup finely chopped tomato
¾ cup diced cucumber
1 teaspoon minced onion
Salt and pepper
Mayonnaise

Combine all ingredients, season to taste. Add enough mayonnaise to thin to spreading consistency.

Raisin-Honey Filling.
1 cup chopped or ground raisins
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons honey
¼ cup chopped nuts
1½ teaspoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon mayonnaise

Mix all ingredients together and use as a filling between thin slices of brown or white bread.

Cheese-Marmalade Filling.
½ cup grated American cheese
½ cup orange marmalade
¼ cup cream
Prepared mustard

Combine cheese and cream, then add marmalade. Spread on bread with a thin film of prepared mustard.

When you serve sandwiches for entertaining or with salads, the open-faced variety are very popular. Use only very fresh bread, thinly sliced and buttered. Here are spread suggestions:

Mushroom-Ham.

Cover very thin slices of boiled or baked ham with mushrooms which have been peeled and halved. Broil until the ham is browned delicately and the mushrooms are soft.

Pimiento Topping.
1 teaspoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons butter or substitute
1 cup diced cheese
6 tablespoons milk
¼ cup chopped pimiento
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons pickle relish

Combine cornstarch and milk. Add cheese and butter. Cook in a double boiler until thick and smooth. Season to taste and cool. Add pimiento and pickle relish. Spread on thin, buttered slices of bread and serve at once.

Tomato-Egg Topping.
¼ cup minced onion
1 cup canned tomatoes or juice
¼ cup minced bacon
6 eggs, slightly beaten
Salt and pepper

Fry bacon until crisp. Add onion and brown. Add tomatoes and season to taste. Add eggs, cooking slowly, stirring constantly until whites are firm. Serve on toast.

Cucumber Topping.
1 medium cucumber
4 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1 teaspoon minced onion
Mayonnaise
Salt and paprika

Peel cucumber and slice lengthwise. Remove seeds and chop fine. There should be about 1 cup pulp. Add onion and eggs, moisten with mayonnaise to spreading consistency. Season to taste and spread on buttered slices of bread. Garnish with paprika.

RURAL TELEPHONE SERVICE

1 In Michigan Bell central offices, men are busy installing enough telephone equipment this year to serve 100,000 additional lines, many of them for new customers in rural areas.

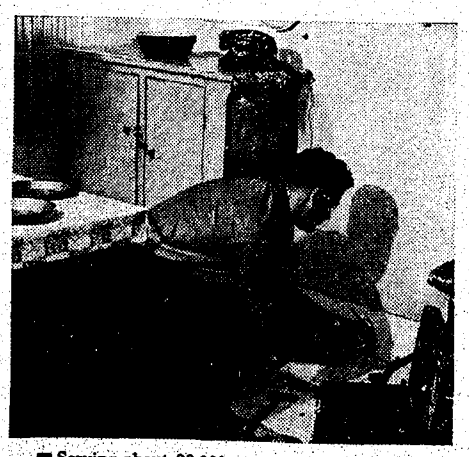

2 More than 6,000 miles of wire have been added in rural sections this year. These wires join with cable leading to the nearest central office and must be spliced carefully in order that your telephone will work properly.

3 After a rural telephone line leaves the cable, it travels on big crossarms bolted to the poles. With the rural lines it's building, Michigan Bell will use about 100,000 crossarms on some 60,000 new poles this year.

4 Bringing wires from the road to the house is one of the last steps in the telephone installation job. It's a commonplace scene throughout Michigan today. Michigan Bell is now installing telephones in the rural areas it serves at a rate of about 2,000 a month.

5 Serving about 98,000 customers in rural areas now—more than twice as many as in 1941—Michigan Bell is making real progress in extending and improving its rural telephone service, particularly in view of the many material shortages which hamper the job.
